Module Six:
Maximizing Your DiSC Style to Lead Your Team to Success & Setting Your Course Ahead

A CT Transportation Leadership Program REQUIRED Workshop—Cohort #7

For a team to be successful, it is essential that members communicate clearly and understand each other. Knowing our own DiSC style and understanding team members’ needs and preferences will positively impact morale, productivity and overall cohesiveness. In this session, we will revisit our own styles and learn how to “read” our team members to assess their preferences and needs. We will also discuss strategies and tools for using this information to more clearly communicate with them and build a strong team. The afternoon will focus on your own leadership development plan.
